My Name Is Ai Lin

Maria Wen Adcock, Yu Ting Cheng

When Ai Lin starts school, none of her classmates can pronounce her name. They ask Ai Lin if they can just call her by another name. It's not that important, right?

But Ai Lin knows the significance of her Chinese name. No, it cannot be changed. Her name is part of her identity and her heritage. It was chosen for what it means and for how it sounds. It ties her to her family—present and past.

When Ai Lin shares her family history, her classmates come to understand that a name can be a person's story, special and unique. Ai Lin's name, and all that it means, is as personal as a fingerprint, as distinct as a snowflake.

In this empowering story, a child shows that by making the effort to properly pronounce someone's name, we send the welcoming message that everyone is worthy of respect and dignity.

- Back matter includes an author's note about the importance of names.

Maria Wen Adcock is a first-generation Chinese American writer, and the author of It's Chinese New Year, Curious George. She lives on Long Island in New York.

Yu Ting Cheng is a Taiwanese illustrator whose experiences abroad resonate deeply with Ai Lin's journey. Yu lives in Taipei, Taiwan.

Gus Hearts the Bus

Lindsay Leslie, Geeta Ladi

Do you know that feeling you get right before you do something for the very first time? Gus has that feeling. He and his family are going on Gus's very first bus ride!

And from that moment on, Gus is hooked—he loves the bus!

And do you know the feeling when you can't get enough of something? Gus has that feeling. He learns everything there is to know about buses, from memorizing the routes to learning each bus's number and its destination. Gus even creates his own imaginary bus system.

So when it's time to ride the bus in a new, big, busy city, who is the one best prepared to help his family navigate the streets? It's the little boy who really loves the bus!

This joyful story celebrates following one's passions.

Lindsay Leslie is the author of This Book Is Spineless, Nova the Star Eater, Dusk Explorers, and So You Want to Build a Library. She lives in Austin, Texas.

Geeta Ladi is a picture book illustrator whose work includes the award-winning My Brain Is Magic by Prasha Sooful. Geeta lives in Chennai, India.

Miss Betti, What Is This? How Detroit's School Lunch Lady Got Good Food on the Menu

Lela Nargi, Kristen Uroda

Miss Betti Wiggins recalls the wholesome food her mother prepared for her childhood school lunches. Hearty sandwiches and vegetables and fruit grown from the vine. Healthy food that nourished one's body and one's mind. Her mother knew that a child needed good food to grow strong and to learn.

Miss Betti wants to put her mother's wisdom into practice. She's responsible for the lunch program that feeds thousands of schoolchildren in Detroit, Michigan. And what she sees on the school menu does not make her happy. It is not wholesome, it is not nourishing, and it is not appealing.

Little by little, Miss Betti makes changes to the school menu. Working with local growers, she brings in fresh fruits and vegetables. She establishes school gardens, engaging the students in her mission. By the time Miss Betti's work is done, every schoolchild in Detroit has eaten the good food she has worked to serve them.

- Back matter includes the history of the US school lunch program.

Lela Nargi's picture books include the award-winning The Honeybee Man. She has worked with the Smithsonian and National Geographic. She lives in Brooklyn, New York.

Kristen Uroda creates vibrant illustrations that inspire people to dream, hope, and imagine a kinder world. She lives in metro-Detroit, Michigan.

Little Ghost House Hunts

Lucy Branam, Natalie Hoopes

Little Ghost lives in an attic. It's an eerie attic. It's a cozy attic. But it's also a very noisy attic.

Little Ghost lives with his mama, his papa, and his seven spooky siblings. It's so loud that Little Ghost can't hear himself practice his boos. What's a poor quiet-loving ghost to do?

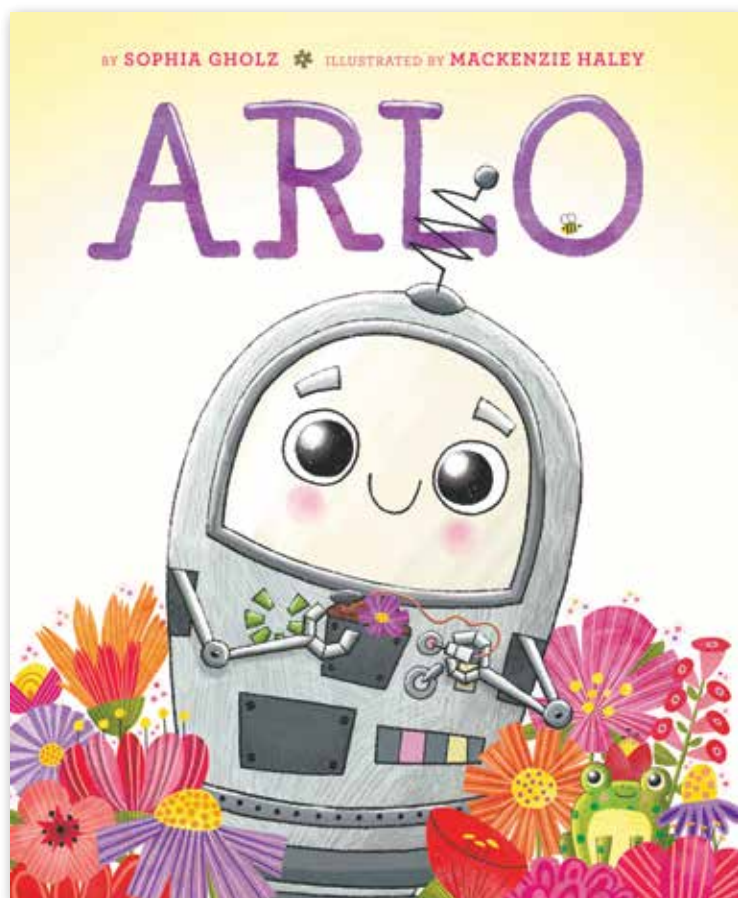

Little Ghost decides to find a quieter house to haunt. On Halloween night he sets out among the costumed witches, princesses, superheroes, and goblins to find the perfect new home.

But after going from house to house to house, Little Ghost can't find a home that meets his needs.

Will the last house in the neighborhood be the right fit for Little Ghost? Young readers will enjoy this not-too-scary tale of a sweet ghost's house-hunting adventure.

Lucy Branam's books include Roof Octopus and Monday. She lives and reads in Jacksboro, Tennessee, and dabbles in graphic design.

Natalie Hoopes is an illustrator who loves all things spooky and cute and hopes to find her own haunted house someday. She lives near Phoenix, Arizona.

ARLO

Sophia Gholz, MacKenzie Haley

ARLO is a bot. And just like the other bots in the factory, each day ARLO powers up, greases his gears, and works on the assembly line. Day after day after grim, dreary day.

Thwack. Clack. Crack. Bing. Bang. BOOM!

Unlike the other bots, ARLO wants something more. On breaks from the assembly line work, he tinkers, he invents, he creates. But no one knows what to make of ARLO's inventions, and the big bots in charge shut his ideas down. "Not. Per-mit-ted."

Is this all there is for ARLO?

One day a storm swirls in and tosses ARLO out into a strange, beautiful world. He sees inspiration everywhere. Can ARLO find his way back to his fellow bots and share what he has discovered?

Sophia Gholz is a children's book writer, music lover, avid reader, and the award-winning author of The Boy Who Grew a Forest. She lives in Orlando, Florida.

MacKenzie Haley is an award-winning illustrator whose work includes Dolly Parton's Billy the Kid series, as well as A Book for Bear. She lives in Louisville, Kentucky.

We Want Leaves! A Fall Chant

Jamie A. Swenson, Emilie Boon

Not a swirl

Not a twirl

Not a flitter-flutter crunch

We've been waiting for leaves—we want a bunch!

In this boisterous rhyming plea, a trio of youngsters imagines the delights they'll enjoy once autumn arrives, from pumpkin patches to corn mazes to hayrides, and more! The colorful leaves can't arrive soon enough.

But once the leaves start to fall, are the youngsters in for more than they bargained for?

The artistic team behind We Want Snow! A Wintry Chant now brings readers young and old this joyous celebration of autumn's activities, recalling past pleasures and imagining more to come.

Jamie A. Swenson is the award-winning author of numerous children's books. She works as a library associate/early-literacy educator, and lives in Janesville, Wisconsin.

Emilie Boon is the illustrator or author-illustrator of more than 20 children's books, including Ella & Monkey at Sea. She lives near Boston.

The Dog Who Saved the Bees

Stephanie Gibeault, David Hohn

Cybil Preston needs a dog. But not just any dog. She needs a dog to help with her work. Cybil inspects beehives to ensure the health of commercial beehives in Maryland. Hundreds of hives are shipped across the country as farmers need bees to pollinate their crops. Without the bees, there wouldn't be foods like apples, almonds, and strawberries.

But the bees must be healthy to be shipped, and there's a deadly disease, foulbrood, that is highly contagious. If even one infected hive leaves the state, entire bee populations could be wiped out. Dogs, with their ultrasensitive sense of smell, can sniff out even the tiniest scent of foulbrood in a hive. A well-trained, focused detection dog can inspect 50 hives in 10 minutes. Work that would take Cybil an entire day to do.

When Cybil meets Mack, an unruly, lonely dog, she wonders if she has found her canine colleague. Can rambunctious Mack be trained to meet this important challenge?

• Back matter includes science facts about dogs and bees.

Stephanie Gibeault is a certified dog trainer and former biologist with a master's degree in animal behavior. Her books include Toby Tootles. She lives near Toronto, Canada.

David Hohn's books include The River That Wolves Moved: A True Tale from Yellowstone. He lives in Portland, Oregon.

The Own Voices, Own Stories Award Collection

Titles in this collection are written by new authors from historically marginalized groups with the intention of recognizing and amplifying new and diverse voices with underrepresented perspectives. By publishing the stories of our OVOS award winners, we hope to reflect authentic experiences and perspectives back to the children and families that share them—and to our readers at large.

This Sunday My Daddy Came to Church

Jeanine DeHoney, Robert Paul Jr.

Omar loves going to church every Sunday with his mother. He loves putting on his best clothes and meeting up with neighbors to walk together to services.

But his daddy doesn't join them. "Some Sundays are meant for doing much of nothing or a little bit of something," says his father. Omar's mother doesn't get upset. Each Sunday she reminds Daddy that his suit is in the closet and ready if he would like to attend church. But he never does.

When Omar asks his mother why Daddy doesn't join them, she talks to Omar about faith and belief. There are different ways to worship, and they do not have to take place in a building. But Omar still wishes his father would join them. This heartwarming story celebrates the bonds of family.

- This is an Honor Winner in the OVOS collection.

Jeanine DeHoney's stories have been featured in anthologies such as the Chicken Soup for the Soul series, including Chicken Soup for the African American Woman's Soul. She lives in Tobyhanna, Pennsylvania.

Robert Paul Jr. is the illustrator of the USA Today-bestseller When Black Girls Dream Big. He lives in Houston, Texas.

Dreams Take Flight: The Story of Deaf Pilot Nellie Zabel Willhite

Brittany Richman, Alisha Monnin

At the age of four, everything in Nellie Zabel's life changed. A childhood fever leaves her deaf. But Nellie's loving mother is determined that her daughter will have an active life and be able to do anything she dreams of doing.

School is difficult but Nellie perseveres. She eventually settles into a position working at the Sioux Falls airport in South Dakota. There she becomes enraptured by the planes taking off and landing—soaring like birds. She dreams of flying. Could she train to be a pilot? What will it take for Nellie to make her dream come true?

Brought to life in soaring artwork, this chronicle of an extraordinary woman encourages readers of all ages to follow their dreams, no matter the challenges. This OVOS award winner tells Nellie's story from the perspective of an author with hearing loss and is supported by Easterseals.

• Back matter includes more details about Nellie's life.

Brittany Richman is cofounder of the American Moms blog and has been partially deaf since childhood. She lives in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Alisha Monnin was born and raised in rural Ohio in a small village where distance is measured by cornfields. She now resides in Cincinnati, Ohio, with her cat named Beignet.

A Cowpoke's Christmas

Ann Ingalls, Lauren Gallegos

It's Christmas day and Sam can hardly wait! The decorations are up and everything around the little ranch looks festive and cheery.

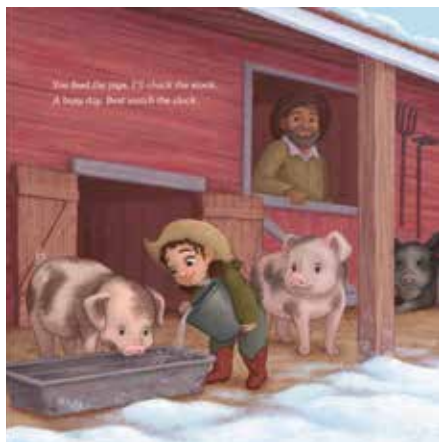

But before the holiday celebrations can begin, Sam has a list of chores she needs to do. With her grandfather's help, Sam is ready to get started. The cow needs to be milked, the chickens need to be fed, and the livestock needs tending. And Hank the dog needs a good bath. It almost feels like a regular day.

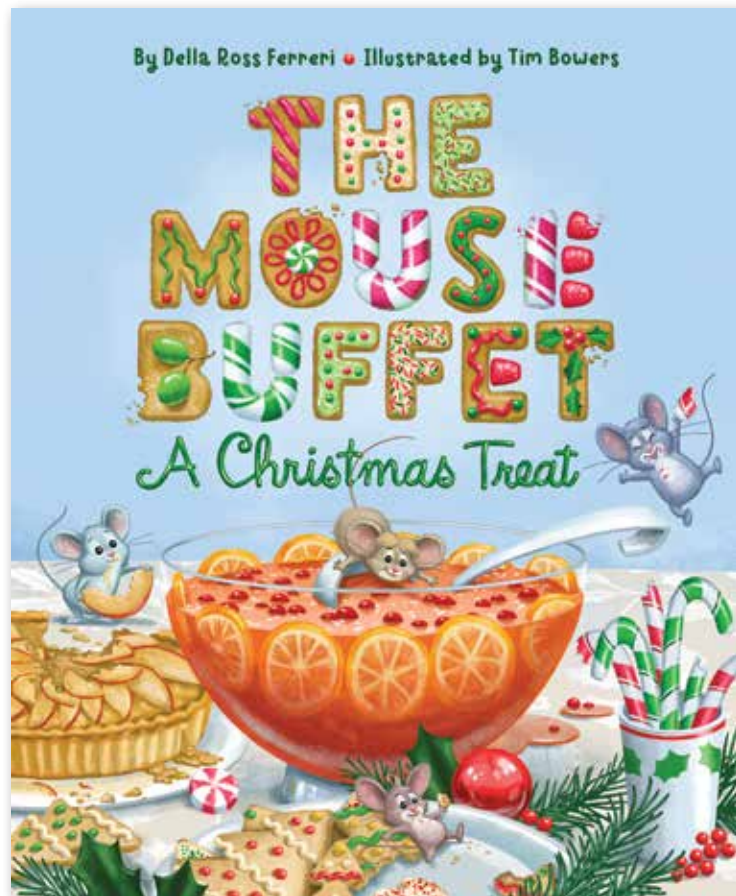

In addition to the Christmas holiday, Sam and her family have another reason to celebrate: their mare, Blossom, is getting ready for her first foal.

Through jaunty, rhyming text, little readers will enjoy following Sam along as she completes her chores in time for Christmas fun.

Ann Ingalls is a former elementary school teacher who writes fiction and nonfiction. Her books include the Tip and Tucker beginning reader series. She lives in Kansas City, Missouri.

Lauren Gallegos's books include Baa, Baa, Tap Sheep, with many of her titles highlighting the enjoyment found in everyday life. She lives in Southern California.

The Mouse Buffet: A Christmas Treat

Della Ross Ferreri, Tim Bowers

Sneak a peek. Lookee, lookee!

Way up there—a Christmas cookie!

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house, not a creature was stirring, not even a . . . Oops! As it turns out, one house has a lot of activity this Christmas holiday!

A quartet of mice is wide-awake and looking for some tasty treats. When what to their wondering eyes should appear, but a mouthwatering buffet and no humans near.

There are pies and pastries, cookies and tarts. A yummy gingerbread house offers the sweetest sugary treat of all. And there's a big bowl of punch to wash it all down.

But when the mice try to escape with some grapes, one bounces toward a sleeping cat. Is their holiday caper over? Rhyming text and lively artwork bring this fun holiday treat to tasty life!

Della Ross Ferreri's picture book Star of the Show was named a 2010 Bank Street College Best Children's Book. She lives in the Hudson Valley in New York.

Tim Bowers is an award-winning artist who has illustrated more than 50 children's books, garnering such awards as the Texas Bluebonnet for Memoirs of a Tortoise. Tim lives in Mount Vernon, Ohio.

Night of the Deer

Mary Morel, Mira Miroslavova

On the day of the fall harvest dance, as Arabella is being driven to school by her parents, they spot a pair of deer peering out from a cornfield. Her parents joke that they've heard that deer are tricksters and can even pose as people. Can this be true? Arabella waves to the deer just in case it is.

At the harvest dance that night, the school has been transformed into a magical space with glowing decorations, delicious snacks, and lively music. Everyone is excited! The dancing begins and young and old all join in.

But then a strange bewitching couple joins the festivities. The man is as handsome as a fairy-tale prince, the woman as delicate as a porcelain doll. They dance with grace and ease. Who are they and where did they come from? The crowd wonders: New York? Paris? Arabella has her suspicions, but is she right?

Mary Morel has written for numerous publications, including Cricket magazine, Spider magazine, Front Street Press, and Scholastic. She lives in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Mira Miroslavova is an award-winning illustrator whose work is inspired by the deep magical forests of Bulgaria where she grew up. She now lives in Manchester, United Kingdom.

Tip and Tucker

Tip and Tucker Road Trip

Say hello to Tip and Tucker! These hamsters are best friends and like to stick together. But while little Tip is sometimes nervous about unfamiliar situations, Tucker likes to explore and see new things.

Everything changes when Mr. Lopez purchases them from the pet store. As Tip and Tucker take a road trip, they wonder what their new home will be like. Mr. Lopez says it will be noisy and fun. What is school?

Get to know Stella Batts!

By Courtney Sheinmel and Illustrated by Jennifer A. Bell

Meet Stella Batts. She's in third grade, she wants to be a writer, and her parents own a wonderful candy shop. Life should be good, right?

"With a light touch, Sheinmel persuasively conveys elementary school dynamics; readers may recognize some of their own inflated reactions to small mortifications in likeable Stella, while descriptions of unique candy confections are mouth-watering." —Publishers Weekly

Nonfiction solutions
for curious minds

SBP Learning features high-quality, high-interest nonfiction. The series launches with two books focused on social justice, encouraging readers to approach the topics with open eyes and minds.

Marching for Change: Movements Across America

Millions of Americans have marched and protested to fight inequality and to bring about social change. These large gatherings, filled with powerful and courageous voices, have shined a light on important issues and resulted in new laws. This book covers some of the most famous marches in US history—and encourages readers to stand up for the things they believe in.

Racial Justice in America: Topics for Change

Topics on race in America have been avoided in children's education for too long—allowing racist systems to continue to thrive. Racial Justice in America: Topics for Change explores current questions around race in comprehensive, honest, and age-appropriate ways. Developed in conjunction with educator, advocate, and author Kelisa Wing to reach children of all races and encourage them to approach race issues with open eyes and minds.
